Communication is a basic human right that all of us possess. Frequently, our students with disabilities have difficulty with the complexities of communication. After all, communication is the activity of conveying information through the exchange of thoughts, messages, or information, by speech, visuals, signals, writing, or behavior. It is the meaningful exchange of information between two or more people. This presentation will highlight some types of communication technologies that are available to assist individuals with communication skills. A review will be provided regarding communication strategies, devices and apps to enhance communication abilities for our students.
